Welcome.

I've been selling on the floor of Cellular Sales — Verizon's #1 Authorized Retailer — for years. I've watched reps right next to me work the same hours, talk to the same customers, and make half what I make.

The difference isn't charm. It's not personality. It's not luck.

It's a system.

This program is that system. Follow it for 30 days. Your commission check will be different.

How to Use This Program

Each week has a focus area and daily practice assignments. Do them in order. Do not skip. The system compounds — Week 4 only works because of what you built in Weeks 1-3.

Minimum time commitment: 15 minutes before each shift. That's it. The rest happens on the floor.

The Math Before We Start

METRIC	AVERAGE REP	TOP 10% REP	YOUR TARGET
Units/month	15-20	35-50+	_____
Add-a-line rate	10-15%	30-40%	_____
Accessory attach rate	40-50%	80-90%	_____
Avg units/shift	2-3	5-8	_____
Monthly commission	$2,000-3,000	$5,000-7,500+	$_____

Adding just 5 extra units/month at $40 avg commission = $200/month extra. Every month. For the rest of your career. $297 pays for itself in 45 days.

Foundation Reset

WEEK 1

Mindset, math, and the 3 openers that work on every walk-in

Day 1-2: The Mindset Audit

Before we touch scripts, we fix the foundation. Most reps unconsciously cap their own income. Here are the 4 income ceilings most reps hit — and how to remove them:

Ceiling 1 — The "Bad Traffic Day" Mindset

Blaming external factors: traffic, weather, "slow Tuesdays," the economy. Top reps perform at the same rate regardless of perceived conditions.

Ceiling 2 — Pre-Qualifying Before You Say Hello

Deciding someone "isn't a buyer" before you've spoken a word. You are not a mind reader. Every person who walks in is a potential sale.

Ceiling 3 — Discounting the Experience

"They look like browsers. I won't hard-sell them." Every customer deserves your full process. You don't get to decide they don't want to buy.

Ceiling 4 — Tracking Footsteps Instead of Conversions

Measuring how many people came in vs. how many you actually talked to. Control what you can control: your engagement rate.

MINDSET AUDIT — Do this before Day 3: Write down your last 3 "bad" shifts. For each one, write the external factor you blamed. Now write one internal decision you could have made differently. This exercise alone changes how you walk onto the floor.

Day 3-4: The Commission Math Worksheet

You can't hit a target you haven't defined. This worksheet reverse-engineers your income target into daily unit goals you can actually work toward every shift.

INCOME GOAL	FORMULA	YOUR NUMBER
Monthly income target	—	$ _____
Estimated commission per unit	÷ $ _____	= _____ units/month needed
Working days per month	÷ _____	= _____ units/day needed
Your current close rate	÷ _____%	= _____ conversations/day needed
Walk-ins per shift (your store avg)	÷ _____	= _____ % of traffic to engage
Your actual engagement rate (last week)	baseline	_____ %
Gap to close	target - baseline	_____ %

Fill this out. Put it somewhere you see it every day. Your goal isn't "sell more" — it's a specific number that you track against every shift.

Day 5-7: The 3 Openers That Work Every Time

Most reps kill the sale in the first 10 seconds. The wrong opener — or no opener at all — signals to the customer that you're about to pressure them. Here are the 3 that work:

OPENER 1 — The Observation

"I noticed you came in with a [phone model]. What do you love about it?"

Why it works: Starts with them, not you. Creates instant rapport. Sets up the discovery sequence naturally.

OPENER 2 — The Welcome Split

"Hey, welcome in! Is this your first time checking us out or have you been in before?"

Why it works: Creates immediate differentiation. New customers get a full intro; returning customers get continuity. Both feel recognized.

OPENER 3 — The New Device

"Did you see the new [latest model] just came out? We just got a demo unit in — want to check it out for a second?"

Why it works: Creates curiosity and urgency. Gives them a reason to stay. Leads naturally into the discovery sequence.

WEEK 1 PRACTICE: For Days 5-7, use ONLY these openers. No improvising. Track which one gets the most engagement. Write it down.

Week 1 Daily Practice Schedule

DAY	FOCUS	PRE-SHIFT (15 MIN)	ON THE FLOOR
Mon	Mindset Audit	Write 3 bad shifts + what YOU could change	Engage every walk-in, no pre-qualifying
Tue	Mindset Audit	Read your audit. Commit to one shift with no excuses	Track: how many people did you engage?
Wed	Commission Math	Fill out the Commission Math Worksheet completely	Write your daily unit goal on a Post-it
Thu	Commission Math	Review your daily target. What's your gap?	Track: units vs target at end of shift
Fri	Opener 1	Practice opener 1 out loud 5 times in the car	Use ONLY Opener 1 for every walk-in
Sat	Opener 2	Practice opener 2 out loud 5 times	Use Opener 2 exclusively. Note reactions.
Sun	Opener 3	Practice opener 3 out loud 5 times	Use Opener 3. Which opener got best response?

The Conversation Framework

WEEK 2

The 5 questions that make closing automatic

The 5-Question Discovery Sequence

Stop pitching. Start discovering. When you ask the right questions in the right order, customers close themselves. The sale happens at question 5, not after the pitch.

#	QUESTION	WHAT YOU LEARN
Q1	What do you use your phone for most — calls, data, photos, or work apps?	Use Cases
Q2	Are you on a family plan or individual?	Plan Structure
Q3	When did you last upgrade?	Upgrade Timeline
Q4	What's the one thing that bugs you most about your current phone?	Pain Point
Q5	What matters most to you — getting the best price, the latest technology, or making sure you're covered?	Buying Criteria

Q4 IS THE MOST IMPORTANT QUESTION IN YOUR ENTIRE PROCESS. Whatever pain they describe becomes your close. "My camera is terrible" → you show camera specs. "I'm always running out of storage" → you show storage tiers. "My battery dies by noon" → you show battery life comparison. Write down the answer. Literally take out a pen. It tells them you're listening.

The Accessory Attach System: 85%+ Rate

The average rep attaches accessories on 40-50% of transactions. Top reps hit 80-90%. On 25 transactions/month at $40 avg accessory commission, that's $750-1,000 difference per month — from accessories alone.

The 3-Step Accessory Framework:

STEP 1 — Assume It

"Let me grab you a case for that."

Insight: NOT: "Would you like a case?" The question invites a no. The assumption invites discussion.

STEP 2 — Bundle It

"The case, screen protector, and fast charger are $89 together, or $120 individually. The bundle makes way more sense."

Insight: Bundle pricing reduces the mental friction of each individual item.

STEP 3 — Lock It In

"I'm putting both in the bag for you. That's $89 total for the bundle. Any questions?"

Insight: This is called "assuming the close." You've moved from selling to confirming.

The Add-A-Line Script

ADD-A-LINE — Use after the transaction is complete

"Before you go — real quick. Do you have anyone on your plan right now who's on a different carrier, or paying full price for a separate plan? I can add a line for $25-30/month. A lot of people don't know that's an option. Anyone come to mind?"

Timing: Say this after the receipt prints, while they're still standing at the counter. Not before — they need to feel bought-in first.

Week 2 Daily Practice Schedule

DAY	FOCUS	PRE-SHIFT PRACTICE	ON THE FLOOR
Mon	Q1-Q2	Practice Q1+Q2 transitions out loud	Use Q1 and Q2 on every single walk-in
Tue	Q3-Q4	Practice Q3+Q4, especially Q4 follow-ups	Focus on Q4. Write down every pain point.
Wed	Full 5Q Sequence	Run through all 5 questions back-to-back	Complete 5Q sequence on 3 customers min
Thu	Accessories	Memorize the 3-step accessory framework	Attempt accessory bundle on every transaction
Fri	Add-A-Line	Practice the add-a-line script 5x	Say the add-a-line script on every completed sale
Sat	Full integration	Review: which Q gets the most traction?	Run full sequence start to finish, every customer
Sun	Measure + adjust	Calculate your accessory attach rate for the week	Recall: what objections came up after Q5?

Objection Elimination

WEEK 3

Word-for-word responses to the 11 most common objections

Objections aren't rejections. They're requests for more information. Every objection has a specific underlying concern. Your job is to find it and address it directly.

OBJECTION: "I need to think about it."

RESPONSE: "Totally get it — that's a smart move. What specifically are you unsure about? Is it the price, the phone itself, or the plan structure?" [Wait for the answer. The real objection is almost never "I need to think about it."]

OBJECTION: "I'm happy with what I have."

RESPONSE: "That's great. A lot of my customers said the same thing before we did a 2-minute comparison of what they were actually paying vs what they could be on. Would you be open to that? If the numbers are better, great. If not, no harm done."

OBJECTION: "It's too expensive."

RESPONSE: "I hear you — help me understand. Are you comparing it to what you're paying right now, or to a specific price you saw somewhere? Let me walk you through the full monthly breakdown. Most people are genuinely surprised."

OBJECTION: "I need to talk to my spouse / partner first."

RESPONSE: "Absolutely — smart move. Here's what I'll do: let me put together the exact breakdown with all the numbers, and you can show it to them tonight. It'll take me 2 minutes. When would work to come back — tomorrow morning or later this week?"

OBJECTION: "I'm under contract with my current carrier."

RESPONSE: "We can sometimes cover the ETF depending on your balance — and even if we can't, we can lock in today's pricing so it's waiting for you when your contract ends. When does yours actually expire? [If < 3 months]: That's closer than you think — let's plan this out now."

OBJECTION: "I can get it cheaper online."

RESPONSE: "Possible. Though what you usually give up is the hands-on setup, the ability to walk back in if something goes wrong, and the account support. What specifically are you seeing online? Give me the model and price and I'll tell you if I can match it — or why it's not quite the same thing."

OBJECTION: "Just looking."

RESPONSE: "No problem at all. While you're here — have you seen the [latest model]? We just got a demo unit. Even if you're not buying today, worth 2 minutes to check it out."

OBJECTION: "I had a bad experience with Verizon before."

RESPONSE: "I'm glad you told me that. What happened? I want to make sure whatever went wrong doesn't happen again — and honestly, if it was something on our end, I want to know about it. Tell me what happened."

OBJECTION: "My bill is already too high."

RESPONSE: "That's actually the best time to review it. Most people who come in saying their bill is too high leave with a lower bill. I can usually find $20-50 in charges that shouldn't be there, or features they're paying for that they're not using. Can I take a look at your account for 5 minutes?"

OBJECTION: "I need to check my credit first / I have bad credit."

RESPONSE: "I'll be honest with you — credit affects what options we have available, but there are usually options. Let me run a soft pull — it doesn't affect your score — and I'll tell you exactly what you qualify for. Better to know than guess."

OBJECTION: "I'll wait until the new model comes out."

RESPONSE: "Fair enough. When is that — do you know? [If vague]: The thing about waiting for the next model is that it delays the savings you're missing every month in the meantime. What specifically do you think the next model will have that this one doesn't?"

The Price Objection — Deep Dive

Price objections are the most common and the most mishandled. Most reps immediately discount. Here's the full framework:

Step 1: Clarify the comparison

"Are you comparing this to what you're paying now, or to a specific number you saw somewhere?"

Step 2: Build the full picture

"Let me show you the complete monthly breakdown — the device payment, the plan, and what comes off with the trade-in. The number most people walk in with isn't the final number."

Step 3: Show the math

"With the trade-in and the promotional price, your monthly is actually [X]. That's [Y] less than what you told me you're paying now."

Step 4: Anchor to the alternative

"If you stay on [current carrier] at [current price], you're paying [Z more] per year for a phone that's [years] behind. Does that math make sense?"

Week 3 Daily Practice Schedule

DAY	OBJECTION TO DRILL	PRE-SHIFT PRACTICE	ON THE FLOOR
Mon	"Need to think about it"	Say response 5x out loud in the car	Use ONLY this response when you hear it
Tue	"Happy with what I have"	Practice the 2-minute comparison offer	Note: how many agree to the comparison?
Wed	"Too expensive"	Practice the price framework (all 4 steps)	Walk every price objection through all 4 steps
Thu	"Spouse needs to decide"	Practice the breakdown offer + reclose	Get a follow-up time from every "spouse" objection
Fri	Under contract / Credit	Practice both responses back to back	Ask about contract status on every single walk-in
Sat	Full objection review	Review: which objections came up this week?	Handle at least 3 objections using the exact scripts
Sun	Drill weak spots	Drill your 2 hardest objections 10x each	Track: how many objections did you successfully convert?

Income Multipliers

WEEK 4

Follow-up systems, referrals, and 90-day pipeline building

The Follow-Up Text Sequence

Most reps never follow up. The ones who do — consistently — add 4-8 extra units per month. That's $160-320 extra commission every single month.

TEXT 1 — Same day or next morning (after non-sale conversation)

"Hey [name], it's Warren from Cellular Sales. Wanted to check in — any questions about [what you looked at]? Happy to help if you need anything."

Short. No pressure. Just open the door.

TEXT 2 — 3 days later (if no reply)

"Hey — just circling back. The [phone/plan] we talked about is still available. I have one left in [color]. Let me know if you want me to hold it."

Add scarcity. Creates mild urgency without pressure.

TEXT 3 — 7 days later (if still no reply)

"Hey [name] — last message, I promise. The deal we looked at is still available. Would hate for you to miss it. [Store phone] if it's easier to call."

Final touchpoint. Give them an easy way to respond.

TEXT 4 — 30 days later (long-term pipeline)

"Hey, it's Warren. Just checking in — still thinking about that [phone/plan upgrade]? We have some new promos this month that might change the numbers."

Long-term follow-up. One text can close a deal you forgot about.

The Referral Ask Framework

"Before you head out — if you have any friends or family who've been thinking about upgrading or need a new plan, send them my way. Ask for Warren. I'll take care of them the same way I took care of you."

Timing: After the transaction is complete, customer is happy, receipt is printed — right as they're about to leave. Never mid-transaction.

When they say "Actually, yes, I have someone":

REFERRAL CLOSE

"Perfect. What's their name? And what's the best number to reach them? I'll give them a call personally — or if you want, just text them my number. I'll take good care of them."

Building Your 90-Day Pipeline

A pipeline is a list of people who didn't buy today but might buy in 30, 60, or 90 days. Top reps manage this intentionally. Average reps let these leads disappear.

CATEGORY	FOLLOW-UP CADENCE	NOTES
Hot leads (showed real interest, didn't buy, today)	Day 1, Day 3, Day 7	High engagement. Move fast.
Warm leads (interested but wrong timing)	Week 1, Week 3, Month 2	Monthly check-in until they're ready.
Contract expires in 1-3 months	At contact, 2 weeks before expiry, expiry week	Only week-based. Automate the reminder.
Family lines (potential add-a-line)	30 days, 60 days	The timing question is "has anything changed?"
Bad experience customers (won't buy, resolution offer)	Resolution offer only	Fix the experience. Referrals come from resolution stories.

Week 4 Daily Practice Schedule

DAY	FOCUS	PRE-SHIFT PRACTICE	ON THE FLOOR
Mon	Follow-Up Text 1	Write your Text 1 template. Personalize it.	Text every non-sale conversation from last week
Tue	Follow-Up Text 2+3	Set follow-up reminders for 3 days from each lead	Add everyone to your pipeline tracker
Wed	Referral Ask	Practice the referral ask 10x in the car	Say the referral ask on EVERY completed sale today
Thu	Pipeline Review	Review your pipeline. Who needs a follow-up today?	Send Text 2 to anyone who didn't reply to Text 1
Fri	Long-Term Pipeline	Add 30-day reminders for warm leads	Ask about contract expiry on every conversation
Sat	Full System Run	Review Week 4 checklist	Practice the full system start to finish
Sun	30-Day Review	Fill out your 30-day tracking sheet completely	Calculate: what changed from Day 1?

BONUS: 30-DAY DAILY TRACKING SHEET

Fill this out every shift. If you can't fill this out, you can't measure progress.

Print this page. Keep it in your apron or drawer. Review before each shift.

OBJECTION	YOUR FIRST RESPONSE
"Need to think about it"	"What specifically — price, phone, or plan?" → Address it.
"Happy with what I have"	"Open to a 2-min comparison? If the numbers are better, great."
"Too expensive"	"Comparing to what you pay now, or something specific?"
"Need to ask spouse"	"Let me print the breakdown so you can show them tonight."
"Under contract"	"When does it expire? We can sometimes cover the ETF."
"Cheaper online"	"What specifically? I'll tell you if it's apples to apples."
"Just looking"	"While you're here, have you seen the new [model]?"
"Bad Verizon experience"	"What happened? I want to make sure that doesn't repeat."
"Bill already too high"	"Let me look at your account for 5 min — I can usually find savings."
"Bad credit"	"Let me run a soft pull. Better to know than guess."
"Waiting for next model"	"When is that? You're paying more every month you wait."

30-DAY MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

Do the work for 30 days.

If your commission doesn't increase, send me your completed tracking sheets and I will refund you 100%. No questions asked.

The guarantee exists because this works.

I know it works. I do it every day.
